² The court schedules every civil case on its docket on a trial list date. A trial list date is distinct from a trial date certain. The court will schedule a trial date certain by means of a separate scheduling order after conferring with counsel about the selection of a trial date certain. If any dispositive motion is filed in this case, the court will generally continue the trial list date and stay the pretrial deadlines pending resolution of the dispositive motion. However, if no dispositive motion is filed in this case, the court will convene a telephone status conference with counsel to select a trial date certain.
